

IMPROVING SAFETY THROUGH INCIDENT INVESTIGATION

At DuPont, the "Goal is Zero" is more than a vision. For over 200 years, DuPont has set the benchmark for world-class safety performance by establishing safety as a core business function across our global network. Operating in more than 70 countries worldwide with 135 manufacturing and processing facilities, our safety record remains unchallenged.

As a company, DuPont has reaped the financial and operational rewards of safety excellence. We take great pride in knowing our employees are assured of a workplace that takes every effort to ensure their well-being.

WORKSHOP CONTENT

This 2-day workshop is designed to help line managers and supervisors conduct thorough incident investigations that will make it possible to prevent future incidents of the same type.

The workshop introduces the DuPont process for investigating incidents and focuses on developing skills that are needed to investigate incidents effectively and recommend preventive actions. These skills include the ability to

- Interview employees involved in incidents to enlist their co-operation and so gain complete and accurate information.
- Think systematically through key aspects of any incident to determine all the factors that could contribute to the incident.
- Establish the key factors of the incident.
- Apply criteria for selecting preventive actions.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

This workshop will be useful to all site managers, especially to first-line supervisors, middle-to upper-level managers, and to management trainees. Occupational Health and Safety Supervisors will also benefit from attending this workshop.
